City wants tree grant for depot restoration

BY TRACI BONNEY
Maybe money doesn't grow on trees, but Bay St. Louis plans to raise money with trees.

The city is applying for a share of $145,000 in matching grant money available through the Mississippi Forestry Commission.

The share the city wants is $15,000, which city official Mike Cuevas said will be used for a citywide tree inventory, in-house training for the upkeep and maintenance of trees, and additional staff to coordinate volunteers on projects throughout the city.

"The bulk of our efforts, except for the tree inventory, will be directed at the restoration of the old railroad depot grounds," she said.

The city is currently negotiating with CSX Railroad for the purchase of the depot, and plans to restore it as one of three Coast stops for anticipated Amtrak passenger and commuter service.

"One thing we want to do is open up a training center at the depot for the volunteers. We also plan to set up some demonstration tree protection and maintenance projects on the grounds, and do site improvements around the trees at the depot."

Cuevas added that the city hopes to use part of the grant money for the depot ground design plans.

The training given to the volunteers will pay off not only on the depot grounds, but on any future personal projects a volunteer may undertake, she said.

"For example, we will have to do a lot of paving. With the training they will get, the volunteers will know how to protect existing trees when they go to pave their driveway or put in a patio or sidewalk on their own property."

"Volunteer training is an essential part of the project. We hope to develop a brochure and a workbook to attract and train

HHS to add to teaching staff

Hancock Junior High School will hire three additional teachers to meet an anticipated increase in student enrollment for the 1992-93 school year.

Board members of the Hancock County School District approved the hirings Monday, on a recommendation by Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois.

High School Principal David Kopf requested four to five additional teachers, saying, he not only anticipates increased junior high enrollment, but numerous phone calls by incoming gaming employees in the past weeks indicate more than three teachers may be needed.

Board Attorney Joseph "Jody" Gex reported litigation against King Construction Company would be filed within two weeks.

The school district claims King Construction performed faulty roof work when constructing additional classrooms at Gulfview Elementary School several years ago.

Gex also stated, Picayune School District has refused to release the 16th Section Lands allotted to them by Hancock during the establishment of the Stennis Space Center.

He said, at that time, students then living in the buffer zone area, opted to attend school in Picayune. Hancock released certain 16th Section Lands to Picayune with the intent of assisting in the education of those children. There are no children still attending in Picayune from that area.

He added, should Picayune persist in their refusal to return the lands, then Hancock will insist Picayune assume maintenance of the lands.

Gex said he was waiting to hear from the attorney representing the Bi-County Water Association concerning a right-of-way agreement.

"We cannot legally give them the land, but we can lease the land at fair market value."

He concluded his report saying he was waiting for Lee Ben-

Taxi ordinance requires updates

BY TRACI BONNEY
Outdated standards were the driving force behind the passage of a "vehicles for hire" ordinance in Bay St. Louis Tuesday, according to Mayor Edward Favre.

Favre said both the insurance requirements and application/permitting process for cab service operators and drivers needed to be updated. The liability insurance limits were too low, and the application/permit process was not outlined specifically enough, he explained.

The new ordinance, passed unanimously by the City Council, makes the needed changes.

The Council approved the ordinance on an emergency basis, with the understanding that amendments can be made as needed. The ordinance went into effect immediately.

"Some questions raised Tuesday before the ordinance was passed, included how the city can limit the number of cabs in operation, requirements for a Mississippi driver's license, and vehicle maintenance, inspection and certification," Favre said.

"As for the limits on the cab numbers, I think we can take care of that when we are issuing certificates of public convenience and necessity. When we consider issuing a certificate to an operator, we can at that time

Hancock approves Scotopic screening

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
"My child never had a recess," the mother of a Hancock fourth grade student reported to board members Monday.

"Now he completes in one hour, the same amount of work it took us all night to finish."

Special Education director Sherry Ponder received approval from the Hancock School District to join the Bay-Waveland School District in paying to train 15 teachers in screening techniques for Scotopic Sensitivity Syndrome.

Ponder explained the syndrome as a visual perception problem in which light distorts the material being viewed.

The mother of the student, reported her child suffered headaches and nausea when reading and described the words as swirling on the page. She said the child was only able to read one word at a time and was forced to spend hours of extra time in study.

Ponder stated the condition is corrected through the use of tinted eyeglasses. A number of colored overlays are placed upon reading materials until the correct color is found.

Once a child is found to have such a condition, recommendation is made by the school for extensive testing to be performed by a

Bay Development Foundation

Main Street Project takes a new name

Main Street-Bay St. Louis will now be known as the Bay St. Louis Development Foundation, according to John Adams, Foundation chairman.

"Having Main Street in our title was limiting and difficult to market. It always took a long, drawn out explanation to explain that you didn't have to be located on Main Street to be part of the program."

"Our project areas are the traditional commercial districts of downtown, depot area and Hwy. 90. The area is broad, and so is our mission."

"We felt the public needed to be assured quickly that we are not-for-profit, that we are dedicated to development and that we are concerned about all of Bay St. Louis' commercial interests," added Adams.

The Foundation's mission is to ensure Bay St. Louis has the heart of historic, social, economic and cultural activities through promotion, design, economic restructuring and organization.

The Bay St. Louis Development Foundation is a public-private partnership with the City of Bay St. Louis and is a designated Main Street project through its association with the National Trust for Historic Preservation's National Main St. Center and the Mississippi Downtown Development Association.

Using the four-point approach established by the national Main St. Center as its guide, the Foundation has a busy agenda. Projects and programs which the Foundation will undertake include:

Economic Restructuring: Low-interest loan pool for Foundation members in designated areas and entrepreneurial enhancement and development.

Promotion: Image development and marketing strategy and local art and art resources development.

Design: Unification of the Downtown, Depot and Hwy. 90 commercial districts and restoration guidelines to preserve historical integrity of older commercial buildings; and Organization: Leadership training, continuing education and workshops.

Members of the Board of Directors include Adams, Irwin Cucullu, Michael Reeves, Dusty Rhodes, Yancy Pogue, Ruth Thompson, Sue Chamberlain, Donna Tingstrom, John Scafide and Charles Gray. Mike Cuevas is project manager.

Although oranges are common in Florida, they normally do not have "Hancock County Jail" stamped on them.

This time, though, two oranges — orange shirts, to be exact — led to the capture in Florida of two trustees who escaped from the Hancock County jail last Sunday, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

The Escambia County Sheriff's Department in Pensacola has both men in custody. They said someone reported that they had seen two guys in orange shirts with "Hancock County Jail" on them, he said.

Unemployment program extended to March '93

The Emergency Unemployment Compensation (EUC) program has been extended to March 6, 1993. The new legislation is effective retroactively to June 14.

Persons already receiving emergency benefits will not be eligible for the new program. Those who qualified for the emergency benefit program before June 13 will continue to draw benefits for either 26 or 33 weeks, according to Charles Ballard, unemployment insurance director for the Mississippi Employment-Security Commission.

However, Mississippians who exhausted their regular unemployment insurance entitlement on or after June 14 may qualify to receive up to 20 weeks of additional unemployment benefits.

"On the other hand, individuals who have already exhausted their emergency benefits entitlement (EUC) are not eligible for additional weeks. This is very important for the public to understand," Ballard said.

"MESO is notifying all claimants who presently have a balance of EUC benefits about their status. Many will only need to continue filing weekly claims. Others may be asked to report to their local unemployment insurance claims center," Ballard said.

Congress passed the emergency benefit extension just before the Independence Day holiday, when the program was set to expire. It was the second extension of legislation enacted last fall.

Quality of drinking water
depends on many factors

Is our drinking water safe? As with any public policy issue, it depends upon who you ask. The reality is the quality of drinking water depends on a number of factors, the most important being local conditions.

Contamination of drinking water is not some theoretical potential problem, or something that rarely occurs. The problem is here, NOW.

It should be noted the amount of water we have today is all that we will ever have. Water is in a constant cycle of mixing and moving in the form of clouds and precipitation. It becomes groundwater such as springs and aquifers, which are underground reservoirs, or surface waters such as rivers, streams, lakes and reservoirs. The condition drinking water arrives at your tap depends on your community's location and population and on the accessibility to water. In many populated areas, a centralized water treatment and delivery system is usually established. This draws on the cleanest source of ground or surface water available. In rural areas, individuals rely on their own wells.

A wide range of hazardous sources can be linked to the contamination of our drinking water. Disposal of many products used in and around a home such as solvents, batteries, used motor oil, gasoline, ammunition and old pesticides require special considerations.

In addition, industries such as dry cleaners, photo labs, water and waste treatment plants, and chemical and petroleum production all require disposal waste. All this waste is capable of contaminating drinking water.

Waste disposal activities threaten both ground and surface water supplies primarily through the natural process of precipitation. The rain moves through a waste site, becoming contaminated and then seeping directly in the groundwater or running off into surface water supplies.

The major waste disposal methods include the following:

—Landfills, sometimes referred to as dumps, are repositories for all types of solid waste, including agricultural wastes, municipal sludges, household hazardous wastes and industrial wastes.

Surface impoundment such as pits, ponds and lagoons are another type of waste disposal. Surface impoundments are used to store, treat, or dispose of municipal, industrial and agricultural wastes.

Thirty percent of the impoundments lie over vulnerable aquifers, a source of drinking water.

—On-site sewage disposal is another source of possible contamination. Approximately 25 percent of the households dispose of their residential waste water through septic systems, cess pools or other on-site methods.

According to one estimate based on a 50-gallon per day discharge per household, this translates into 3.5 billion gallons of waste daily. In areas where drinking water wells and septic tanks are located near each other, contamination of the drinking water by the septic tank can occur.

Whatever is "flushed down the drain" can be found in the well water, including pathogenic bacteria, viruses, nitrates, phosphates (which are in detergents) and a variety of household chemicals.

—Another major source of contamination is direct discharge into waterways. Waste is disposed in rivers and streams which dilutes and transports them to great distances. In many areas, the waterway that carries away one city's waste, serves as another city's water supply source downstream.

—Drinking water contamination can also result from agricultural activities. The leaching of dissolved agriculture chemicals, such as pesticides, herbicides, insecticides and fertilizers as well as bacteria nitrates from animal waste can threaten aquifers. Runoff of agriculture chemicals and animal waste also can contaminate surface water.

volunteers, and to maintain community education at a high level once we get the project going.

"We also plan to document the whole project and do a video for training and statewide promotion. We want to show this as a model for others interested in urban forestry projects."

Although the loftier possibilities of the project are high on the priority list, the more practical applications are not forgotten, either.

"Another big element of this project will be to figure out a way to get rid of and control the growth of kudzu without harming the trees at the depot."

The grant requires matching funds from the city, which Cuevas said can be comprised of cash and volunteer labor.

"This is an ambitious project, but the city hasn't attempted anything in the last three years that hasn't been ambitious. We will accomplish this not purely by city efforts, but by public-private partnerships."

"I think this project, once it has started, will galvanize the city's residents as they have not been galvanized since Camille," Cuevas commented.

"I wanted to start two months ago, but I'll be satisfied if we start in October. I can't wait until the final negotiations are finished on the depot, and we can take off with this."

She added that the city is applying for several more grants to help with the depot project.

determine the need for the service.

"Concerning the license requirements, the state law should cover that, but if it doesn't, we'll add something to our ordinance to deal with that issue. We can also add some requirements about vehicle safety and maintenance to cover the other point raised."

Favre said the new ordinance gives the city some control it did not previously have.

"It puts the city in a better position to regulate the industry. Now we can regulate the number of operators, based on the public need."

"It also protects the other operators, by keeping the field of competition for business from getting so diluted that no one profits."

At present, he added, three operators are in the process of submitting applications to the city.

were wearing shorts and dark t-shirts at the time they escaped, but they took their uniforms with them. I guess they got used to wearing them, and just couldn't do without them."

One of the two men, Gene Donald Poss, 22, had given Pensacola as his residence when he was arrested. He was awaiting trial on charges of grand larceny and malicious mischief when he escaped. The other trustee, Anthony J. Halekias, 25, of Lakeshore, was serving a three-year sentence after having pleaded guilty to burglary of an auto.

Peterson said the two men apparently escaped around 4 p.m. Sunday by slipping through a drainage ditch they had enlarged. The sheriff's department had received a report that the two men were seeking work in Bayou Cadet, but investigation disproved the report.

Poss was also wanted in Florida on a drug-related charge, so he is being held by the Escambia County authorities. Peterson said his office is coordinating efforts with the Mississippi Department of Corrections and Florida law officials to have Halekias transported from Florida to Parchman penitentiary, where he will be held until the escape charge against him can be presented to the grand jury.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Crepe myrtles have to be the hardiest plants grown in our area.

Have you noticed how most are now in full bloom even with the scorching sun?

Oleanders are not doing too bad either, as many of them are also in bloom.

I read some articles in our archives, written before the turn of the century, reporting how beautiful oleanders were in Bay St. Louis along Front Street.

It seems there were long stretches of oleanders several feet thick, and they were the talk of the town.

Of course, most of you know oleanders are poisonous and very dangerous to have around youngsters.

Efforts had been underway in the Bay-Waveland area to plant crepe myrtles, and many were planted several years ago.

The efforts from those plantings are now beginning to make a difference.

I would like to see more crepe myrtles planted about the area, as they could become one of the additional attractions of Hancock County.

Starting Monday, the Bay Little League Girls Softball will be hosting the Little League Tournament at McDonald Field starting at 6 p.m.

The Bay St. Louis team is the defending champ and will be trying to keep the trophy at home.

I have been watching the girls play for several months, and they seem to have some very good players on the Bay squads.

The tourney in the Bay will be for ages 11 and 12. First game pits Bay against Central Harrison on Monday with Woolmarket and Meridian vying at 7:30 p.m.

Coaches, managers, players and parents would like to see good support from their hometown in this tourney, and admission to the stands is free.

The Bay St. Louis Senior League team, ages 13 to 15, will be playing in the state tournament starting Monday night in Saucier Ballpark. They vie against Harrison Central at 7:30 p.m.

Starting Monday, July 27, the Bay will also sponsor the 9- and 10-year-olds and the Big League (16-19-year-olds) girls at McDonald Field. So, you may want to mark your calendar for that week too.

Best of luck to all of the Bay St. Louis Girls League teams.

It always makes me feel good to hear about young Hancock Countians who have done well for themselves.

I am referring to Ya-Sin Shabazz, former St. Stanislaus graduate, who was honored at graduation for his academic and sporting achievements.

Ya-Sin recently was graduated from Trumbull College at Yale with a degree in economics and political science and was awarded the Roosevelt L. Thompson Prize.

This prestigious award was for his community service, serving as a tutor in New Haven elementary and high schools.

Shabazz found time to do this along with his own school work and being a four-year member of the Yale football team.

His honors include being chosen to participate in the Epson Ivy Bowl All-Star Game in Japan. While not playing football, he also found time to play for Trumbull's College's intramural basketball team.

Congratulations Ya-Sin, you have made your mother, Shakira Shabazz, and this community rightfully very proud of you for your special achievements.

By the way, Ya-Sin is now working in North Carolina with the Children's Defense Fund and this fall will report to work at the Miami Herald.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Men should have no say in women's right to choose

Editor:

In the past few weeks I have watched in horror as the news media makes a daily event out of the tragedy of women desperately fighting to keep women's freedom and the right to choice, a reality.

And as I watch, I see men pouring out propaganda as spokespersons for the "so-called" right to life movement. These men... ministers, preachers, priests, congressmen, political candidates, the President, Vice-President, and other assorted males... all speaking FOR women.

They seem to think we are too dumb and stupid to be trusted to make the right decision for ourselves on the issue of the right to choose, or NOT choose, (no one is forced into an abortion) safe and legal abortion as an option in our reproductive lives. They presume to know what's best for us; but none of these men, as far as I know, has ever suffered through a pregnancy or delivery.

If these men in the so-called right to life movement really loved the born and unborn, as they claim, abortion would hardly be an issue. It has been my experience as a woman, working with other women and as a mother, that women consider abortion only as a last resort... after we find the man in our life or the system in which we live... has failed us, abandoned us, or both.

If these men in the so-called right to life movement really loved the born and unborn as they claim, if they really loved women—instead of trying to deny women safe health care, they would be raising their voices loudly against the epidemic of rape, abuse, molestation, incest, beatings and murder committed by men against women and children every day in this country.

If these men really cared about children, they would clear the streets of the male vermin that make walking down these streets, even in daylight, unsafe. If these men really cherished family values as they claim, they would help enforce payment of court-ordered child support payments, so children are not forced into poverty when there is only one parent in the home. If these men really loved children, they would spend every spare moment seeing to it that no child, anywhere in the world, suffered from starvation and neglect.

Back to reality, it is easy to see the right to life movement is not about love, caring about other people, quality of life or freedom. It is about oppression and the power and control over women's lives. If anyone has power and control over your body, they have TOTAL CONTROL over you and your life.

The church and state have vested interest in seeing that women and children remain powerless. Who knows... if we get some real power, maybe we can insist that men clean up their acts and the mess they have made of this beautiful blue planet.

Sincerely,
C. J. Longanecker

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

House cuts legislative spending

After several days of debate, the U.S. House of Representatives has finally taken the first step in more than a decade to reduce wasteful congressional spending.

Congressional spending, the actual money used to run Congress, will be cut by 5.7 percent should the 1993 Legislative Appropriations Bill become law. The bill also represents real cuts in Congressional spending. Every year legislative appropriations are automatically increased 3 to 4 percent in relation to the rate of inflation. If a legislative agency reports they have received "zero" funding for the following year, the agency will still get the 3 to 4 percent increase over the last year's budget.

The bill's 5.7 percent cut will more than offset the automatic increases legislative branch agencies get every year and truly reduce current spending levels. The bill also will eliminate 2,345 current or projected staff positions. According to estimates, most of those cuts are expected to come from hiring freezes and attrition.

Obviously, Congress is asked to do a great many things for a great number of people. That fact inevitably requires that we have staff and offices in the district to respond to the needs of those we represent. Nevertheless, there are always ways to save money.

In less than three years my office has turned back over $250,000 in unspent Congressional allowances. I believe the recent House approval to reduce Congressional spending is a reflection that the remainder of the members are saying that they too can now do more with less.

I have always pushed for reduced spending by the legislative branch. I would have preferred deeper cuts. But a 5.7 percent cut will suffice for now. I am hopeful that the President and the Senate will approve the bill so Congress can begin saving taxpayers millions while at the same time streamlining legislative operations.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

All types of behind-the-scenes going on in Senate

From all the behind-the-scenes sniping that is going on this summer in races for seats in the state Senate, Mississippi's upper house is not going to be one big happy family when it arrives in January, 1993.

In fact, there are unprecedented charges of backstabbing within the ranks of the Senate itself, plus a growing antagonism on the part of Democratic incumbents toward Gov. Kirk Fordice for trying to replace them with hand-picked Republicans.

Republican Sen. Mike Gunn of Jackson, who operates a political campaign direct mail business in private life, has become the center of a bitter internal squabble in the Senate because several of his clients are GOP senatorial candidates against Democratic incumbents.

Gunn has raised the ire of Sen. Walter "Pud" Graham of New Albany because he is producing and mailing campaign literature for Harry Vinson of New Albany, one of two Republican candidates seeking Graham's 3rd District Senate seat.

Another known Gunn client is Doug Lemon of Richland, running as a Republican for the 35th Senate District seat held by Sen. Rob Smith of Richland, a three-term Democrat.

"I'm disappointed that I have an opponent (Vinson) who is tied to David Duke and neo-Nazism," Graham charged. His reference to former Klan Wizard David Duke dredges up the publicized business affiliation of Gunn with the 1991 Duke campaign for governor of Louisiana.

Gunn had confirmed newspaper articles last year he was paid about $9,500 by Duke's campaign to create direct mail pieces for Duke, but he contended it was a case of needing the business rather than endorsing Duke's philosophy.

Part of Duke's documented past had included his one-time identity with the Nazi Party and as grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

"I understand that Gunn is in a business for hire, but it's odd that he is now the hired gun for the Republican Party," said Graham. The New Albany senator added that Gunn's record in the Senate "shows he is very close to (Governor) Fordice."

Several senators complained that Gunn had been using the free WATS line for the use of legislators to conduct some of his personal political campaign business. Lt. Gov. Eddie Briggs confirmed that he had "heard some reports along that line." In any case, the Senate has clamped down on use of the WATS line, and it is also locking up the Senate postage meter at night.

Senate president Pro Tempore Ollie Mohamed of Belzoni issued a memorandum to all senators last week forbidding any member from using Senate personnel or facilities for campaign purposes.

Meantime, last week, the Senate infighting saw a new development as Sen. Alice Harden of Jackson, one of the four blacks in the Senate and chairperson of the Legislative Black Caucus, sponsored a fund-raiser for black Senate candidate Willie Simmons of Cleveland.

Simmons, a former employee of the state Department of Corrections, is opposing veteran Sen. Robert Crook of Ruleville, who is white. Crook, the senior member of the Senate, is noted as a very sharp-tongued, hard-hitting floor debater.

Said one Senate observer: "I don't think it was very wise for Alice Harden to get crossed with Crook, if he is re-elected. I know I wouldn't want to be in her shoes."

Governor Fordice has been going around the state endorsing Republican legislative candidates, especially those running against Democrats who voted for the 1-cent sales tax hike.

Flying into Brookhaven recently in a state plane, Fordice publicly embraced three GOP candidates seeking to unseat Democrats in the area, among them Sen. W. L. Rayborn of Brookhaven, a rough-hewn legislative veteran. Fordice had later spoken to the Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce.

"After I prove him (Fordice) not as politically powerful as he thinks he is," said Rayborn, "next session I'm going to ask the Appropriations Committee to find out how many plane trips like this one Fordice made and get him to pay back the state."

Rayborn said he foresaw the possibility that Democrats in the Senate will be forced to organize into a caucus and as majority party, control the committee assignments as is done in the National Congress.

Republican Lt. Gov. Briggs is assiduously keeping hands off in the Senate races. But, he admitted last week, "My style and the governor's are quite different."

Moran attends ACS New York conference

BY JANET MCQUEEN
Bay St. Louis resident Jeanie Moran was one of two Mississippi representatives at an American Cancer Society sponsored educational conference in New York.

Moran, director of radiology and registered mammography technician at Hancock Medical Center, attended the National Women's Conference to Develop Strategies for Early Breast Cancer Detection.

"We were there to suggest more effective ways to deal with cancer education to help lower the mortality rate," said Moran.

"The conference was subdivided into seven smaller groups. My topic was 'quality assurance,' where we discussed identification of barriers to perfecting the quality of mammograms, and how to break those barriers.

Soap star

Bay St. Louis resident Jeanie Moran, left, met several daytime television stars while dining at Tavern on the Green in New York. The cast of The Young and the Restless was at the restaurant, including the actress who plays Victoria Newman, at right.

"Some of the suggestions included continuing education for technicians and physicians and a stringent accreditation process."

Moran will travel around the state speaking to various groups about the breast cancer education efforts of the American Cancer Society.

The Hancock Medical Center Mammography Department was accredited in January of 1991. Since that time Moran states approximately 80-100 mammograms are performed each month.

"I want to emphasize that breast cancer is not a death sentence," said Moran. "When detected in stage one, it is 98% curable."

According to Moran, a first time mammogram will take 30-45 minutes of a woman's day. A patient education film is shown prior to the procedure to explain the process.

The American Cancer Society offers the following guidelines for early breast cancer detection:

—Clinical examination once yearly;

—Mammograms: Baseline between the ages of 35-40; twice yearly between 40-49; and yearly after 50 years of age;

—Self-examination monthly.

S. Miss. Main Street meeting held in Bay

Project managers and board members of South Mississippi Main Street cities met in Bay St. Louis June 28 to help their sister city celebrate its first anniversary as a Mississippi Main Street city.

Representatives from Hattiesburg, Long Beach and Ocean Springs, with Scott Barksdale, state coordinator, Jackson, met Bay St. Louis Development Foundation manager Mike Cuevas for a tour of City Hall, the depot and downtown areas.

Alice Mosely, Bay St. Louis folk artist, treated the group to lemonade in her garden and a tour of her studio.

During a general meeting regional issues for promotion, design, organization and economic restructuring were discussed. Marge McGinnis, developer of the Great Southern Trace economic development project was guest speaker, outlining the impact of coordinated activities of the Main Street cities under the umbrella of the larger Great Southern Trace project.

The major common denominator of the South Mississippi Main Street cities is the high concentration of arts in the area. It was decided to adopt the promotion of the arts as its first regional promotion project.

"Joining existing promotions in Bay St. Louis and Ocean Springs during September, creating activities in Long Beach, Biloxi and Hattiesburg, will allow us to market the first regional art pilgrimage in the state. We expect to receive assistance from the Mississippi Arts Commission and the Department of Economic and Community Development tourism Department," stated Cuevas.

Mississippi Power sets all-time energy demand

"Consistently high temperatures in southeast Mississippi have caused demand for electricity to reach record breaking levels," said Mississippi Power spokesman Buddy Eller.

For the second consecutive day, on Wednesday, a record demand for electricity was set.

At 4 p.m., the demand reached 1,755,000 kilowatts, up from 1,743,000 recorded on Tuesday.

Both totals surpassed the previous record set on June 20, 1990, by 41,500 kilowatts and last summer's high, reached on July 31, by 61,000 kilowatts.

Eller said the company's electric system power supply remains in good condition and that no problems are anticipated today in meeting the region's continuing high demand for electricity.

BURGLARY OF A DWELLING

Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda reported the arrest Thursday of a local resident on burglary charges.

Hoda said Terrell Frazier, 27, of Pearlinton was arrested around 1 p.m. Thursday and charged with two counts of burglary of a dwelling in connection with two burglaries reported in February.

Of the household and entertainment items reported stolen, law officers recovered a rifle and a microwave oven, Hoda added. Frazier was released on a $10,000 bond Friday afternoon, according to a spokesman at the county jail.

Hoda is in charge of the investigation, which is continuing. Deputies George Burleson and Kevin Carlisle are assisting.

Surprised? You shouldn't be. Hancock Bank has consistently financed more automobiles than any other bank in south Mississippi since the 1930s.

Today you can finance your car through Hancock Bank at more than 30 car dealerships throughout south Mississippi; or at one of more than 30 Hancock Bank branches.

Bay-Waveland Elks Lodge nears reality with petition

An Elks Lodge in the Bay-Waveland area took a major step toward reality when over 100 men signed a petition for a dispensation to institute the lodge. The action was taken at a meeting at the First Precinct Restaurant June 30.

The petition will be forwarded to the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks for approval, according to Gene Woodrick, chairman of the organizing committee. He said he anticipates a dispensation will be granted within a few weeks.

Those who signed the petition included residents of Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Diamondhead, Kiln, Clermont Harbor, Lakeshore and Pass Christian. When the dispensation is received, a date will be set for institution of the lodge.

Woodrick explained all who are initiated at the time of institution are eligible for charter membership. He said membership rolls will be kept open until then, and meetings will be held regularly to act on membership applications.

The organization committee voted to set the initiation fee at $25 and the fixed annual dues at $36. The new lodge will be officially sponsored by Gulfport Lodge No. 978.

Art Attack IV underway

The Bay St. Louis Development Foundation will host Art Attack IV, an exhibition of the multi-cultural arts of Bay St. Louis Sept. 13. Co-chairmen are Zita Waller, Ruth Thompson, Carter Church and Yancy Pogue.

"The community is grateful for the many years Jerry Dixon organized and was major sponsor of an artist's studio tour to focus attention on the arts in Bay St. Louis," said Waller.

"When Jerry decided to retire from the event, the Foundation eagerly agreed to take over. This has been the premier event taking place in our city, and we felt it was imperative that it continue."

"We owe so much of the community's success to Jerry's efforts. He spearheaded development of our historic downtown as a destination for visitors to enjoy local hospitality," added Church.

According to Mike Cuevas, Foundation manager, "The format for the event will be a little different, but promotion of our artists is foremost. All artists will be hosted in the traditional downtown area, in public and private spaces."

"Visitors will be able to park and walk within a four-block area and participate in the entire event, rather than trying to locate all of the studios."

"The Foundation will host a Patron's Party August 29 to present Purchase Awards to various artists for their most outstanding works adjudicated by five qualified multi-media art judges. Limited tickets for the event will be available through the Foundation," said Cuevas.

For more information on Art Attack IV, contact Thompson at 467-8201, 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Tuesday-Sunday.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Ted Williams, long the target of many and constant vicious comments from press and fans, could and often did single out a lone negative voice from the roar of thousands of fans.

As you can imagine, Ted, whom many students of baseball consider the best all-around hitter of all time, got more than his share of kudos from all quarters. Yet, his most passionate reactions were to the negative criticisms.

We can receive 20 letters full of compliments and affirmation, but one uncomplimentary letter will command our attention, seize our focus and make us feel miserable for days. Perhaps it is just the nature of pain's sting to linger longer than the euphoria of good feelings.

"Bad news travels fast" is simply a variation on the theme of attention-getting negatives. Just as the negatives get our own attention, so do they get the notice of those with whom we share them.

In telling us to spread the Good News just as he did, Jesus knows what we are up against. He himself went about doing everything in his power to sow the seeds of God's kingdom, while the Pharisees and many others were wasting all their energies criticizing him and nullifying all that he said.

Negative things grab our attention more than positive things do only because we allow them to do so. By accepting our mind-set, we predispose ourselves to be affected, moved, influenced more by the negative than by the positive.

We must change whatever is negative in our mind-set because we have too much to lose if we do not. Constant defensiveness, continuous friction and aggravation, raw nerves, restlessness, depression and a mean, bitter disposition are just some of the ugly, painful fruits of a negative mind-set.

Clearly, if we allow them to, negative things do far more than grab our attention. They deflate us, discourage us, help lower our self-esteem, rob us of all peace of mind and soul, and kill the inspiration and imagination which should be welling up from our minds and our very being.

In short, if we allow it, a negative atmosphere makes us feel terrible about ourselves and others. "Love your neighbor as yourself" (Mt. 22: 39), becomes cruelly counterproductive when we saddle ourselves with a negative attitude.

Many good, beautiful, useful, powerful ideas and projects have been nipped in the bud because of negative comments, vicious gossip, slander and malicious actions.

No wonder news is generally defined along the lines of what is negative, deadly, sickly, destructive, evil, profane, obscene, filthy, repulsive and brutal. While we sometimes object to this definition, we are the very ones who revel in this kind of salacious news which is force-fed to us.

Jesus gives us a simple means for overcoming a negative mind-set: "Do to others whatever you would have them to do to you" (Mt. 7: 12).

In other words, just put yourself in the shoes of the other person, and you will not enjoy anything negative or hurting about anyone else. You will look for the positive.

Paul likewise sums it up in one tight package: "Rejoice with those who rejoice; weep with those who weep. Have the same regard for one another" (Rom. 12: 15-16).

Delchamps donation

Tim Mallett, manager of Delchamps in Waveland, presents Dominion Christian Academy principal Mrs. Delcuze, a check for $377 for collecting cash register receipts. DCA plans to use the money towards an end-of-the-year American history tour of the East Coast for all the students.

Roche receives 'Family of God' religious award

Carrie Roche, daughter of Gary and Janet Roche of Waveland, recently received a Family of God religious award during Mass at the Cathedral of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary in Biloxi.

The award was presented by Bishop Joseph L. Howze. She was one of 23 Girl Scouts from the Gulf Pines Council to receive one of the annual awards which are given to outstanding members of the Catholic faith. Carrie was the only Girl Scout from Hancock County to receive the award this year.

The Family of God Award is for girls ages 7-9 and is designed to help them discover the presence of God in their daily lives as members of their family and church parish. Thirteen Girl Scouts received this award. 'I Live My Faith' and 'The Marian Award' were presented to girls in other age groups.

Carrie is a member of Brownie Troop 36 in Waveland. She is a student at St. Clare Catholic School.

FAITH DECLARES A BUDGET VACATION AN ENJOYABLE ONE

Vacation time is here for many of us, and this year it may have to be a low budget one. However, wherever we live in this wonderful country, there is always something beautiful to see nearby, as well as some fun things to do; even if we just lounge around the back yard and maybe take an occasional ride to the woods or a beach, if there's one handy. It's not necessary to spend a lot of money in order to have a good time, escape from the cares and chores of the rest of the year, and see the wonders of nature. Just remember that God made this world we live in, and He put a lot of beauty into it that man, with all his huge shopping malls, etc., cannot completely eradicate. Remember also that God will be watching over you, whether you're at home or away.

COOKING UP
A STORM

By Katy McGuire

Peaches personify the taste and scent of summertime to me.
You can often find me late on a summer afternoon lazing away the time in the swing on the front porch, dripping peach juice happily as I bite into a second, or even a third fresh peach.

And, oh the delicious dishes
you can make while those juicy peaches last! Next to homemade peach ice cream on my list of favorites is fresh peach pie—
a wedge of homemade peach pie with a generous scoop of peach ice cream is nothing less than heavenly! (I will at times settle for vanilla ice cream atop my pie, also.)

When the early settlers reached the Mississippi Valley, they are said to have found a peach tree in every Indian garden. It was the Spanish Con-quistadores who in the last 15th century had introduced the peach to the New World. (Columbus is said to have carried both peach trees and peach seeds on one or both of his second and third voyages to the New World.)

The native American Indians were so fond of the juicy peaches that they spread the seeds far and wide. French colonists brought the peach to what is now Mississippi and Louisiana.
The English colonists in turn "seeded" Jamestown, as well as Massachusetts. And, today, peaches are grown

Ask the Veteran's Service Center

By Donald Mauffray
Veteran's Service Officer

Q. My GI Bill education assistance does not cover all of my education expenses. Does VA offer any other financial assistance?

A. Yes. The VA Work-Study Program offers additional income for veterans enrolled in school three-quarter time or more. Contact your school's veterans affairs office or the nearest VA regional office for complete information.

Q. Can a veteran obtain a VA-guaranteed loan for the purchase of property in a foreign country?

A. No. Real property must be located in the United States, its territories or possessions.

Q. I originally financed my home mortgage. As I did not use my VA eligibility, can I refinance using a VA-guaranteed home loan?

A. Yes, but you must first request a Certificate of Eligibility from your VA regional office. The certificate is then presented to a lender when applying for a VA-guaranteed loan.

Q. I currently pay my VA insurance premium each month. Would there be any benefit to paying the premium on an annual or semi-annual basis?

A. Yes. There is a discount for premiums paid in advance, and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs recently approved a regulation which increased the discount rate to 7.5 percent. The new rate, which took effect December 16, 1991, for policies with prefixes V, RS, W, J or JR, applies to premiums paid in advance—quarterly, semi-annually or annually.
